ABOUT THE SOCIETY...

The Guilford Horticultural Society is a non-profit organization founded in 1983. Our purpose is to provide a venue for garden enthusiasts to gain greater knowledge of plants, their culture and usage, and to network with others who share these interests.

Monthly Meetings are held at the Greensboro Natural Science Center, 4301 Lawndale Drive, Greensboro, NC, at 7:15 pm on the third Monday of each month, September through June (except December & March). For additional information or to join the Society, visit our website:

ABOUT THE SYMPOSIUM...

The Greensboro Horticultural Society is holding its 33rd annual Symposium. This year, we will bring you outstanding speakers, exhibits, plant sales, and abundant door prizes to get you excited about Diversity Gardening.

Jeanette Windham began the GHS as a service to all of Guilford County. Soon after its inception, an annual symposium was instituted to further the aims of the society: education and the sharing of the newest advances in gardening. 33 years later, the Society and the Symposium are still fulfilling that goal.

About the Speakers...

“Cultivars in the Native Landscape”: Travis Beck is Director of Horticulture at Mt. Cuba Center, overseeing 500 acres of native plant gardens, landscaped and natural grounds. He holds a Master's in Horticulture from Ohio State University, is a registered landscape architect and ISA Certified Arborist®. Author of Principles of Ecological Landscape Design, he loves to apply scientific thinking to thorny garden questions.

“The Garden Buffet”: Adrienne Roethling loved plants as a child and studied Public Horticulture at Longwood Gardens. She was Garden Curator for Plant Delight Nursery and has been Garden Curator for Ciener Botanical Garden since 2008. She has written for PJCBG's quarterly newsletter, Fine Gardening Magazine, Yadkin Valley Living Magazine, as well as Foothills Times and the Greensboro News & Record.

“Gardening in the South”: Mark Weathington is the Director of the JC Raulston Arboretum at NC State University, where he is passionate in his work to connect people with plants. He has served as Director of Horticulture at the Norfolk Botanical Garden and has worked at the Atlanta Botanical Garden. Mark has recently completed Gardening in the South: The Complete Homeowner's Guide for Timber Press.
